TWENTY-SEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Oct. 7, 2007

In the beginning of today's Gospel there is evidence that the disciples are gaining insight into the message of Jesus. They are starting to realize that the most important thing is to acknowledge what God has done for them; they are aware of what a great gift their faith is. Their humble request for "more faith" contrasts favorably with the arrogance of the Pharisees whom Jesus characterizes as being pleased with what they can do for God.
