TWENTY-FIFTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Sept. 23, 2007

We don't know when we will be called by the divine master to give reckoning of our stewardship. It could come suddenly and unexpectedly. Today's Gospel suggests that we might do well to make a preemptive strike to put our account in order. Indeed, it urges that we do this with all possible haste and with every available resource, even trickery! That's how important this is. That's how high the stakes are.
